SAN MATEO COUNTY WINS FOUR FIRSTS AND TWO SECONDS

County Leading in Floral Display at Fair; Takes First in Roses, Delphiniums Carnations and Dahlias

San Mateo county is again establishing its claim to the title of the flower growing center of California. At the state fair this week this county is day after day winning first prizes on flowers, cut flowers in competition with other flower raising sections of the state.

And San Mateo county is winning in the face of the strongest opposition which can be mustered against it by other sections because of the fact that for two years this county has won the sweepstakes prize for flowers, and if successful this year will bring home for the third consecutive time the award for the finest display of flowers at the fair.

So far this county has failed but one day to win the first prize, and on that day the San Mateo county booth took second prize. This was the first day of the fair when the competition was in gladioli. The first prize for this flower was awarded to Alameda county, San Matoe's closest rival.

On the next day when carnations were to be judged, San Mateo county took first prize and Alameda county was awarded a second. The next day this county again took first place, this time with delphiniums; and again the second place was taken by Alameda county.

The gladioli entries were made by the McClellan nursery at Burlingame; Montara nursery; Pappas Bros, Colma; H. Plath & Sons, Pescadero; Hanamura farms, Halfmoon Bay; and J. Garibaldi, Colma.

The prize winning carnations were entered by the McClellan nursery at Burlingame, and the delphiniums were the entry of Phil Graves, fardener at the Kleiser estate at Burlingame.

Roses on the fourth day of the fair brought another first prize to this county. The flowers were entered by the McClellan nursery. The second prize in roses was won by Alameda county. On the following day dahlias entered by Miss Alice Meussdorffer, of Daly City, were awarded first prize. Alameda county again won second place.

San Mateo county took second place in the judging yesterday when the competition was in chrysanthemums. First place in this flower was awarded to Alameda. This gives San Mateo county four first and two seconds, and Alameda two firsts and four seconds to the present time. As these awards are being scored this year, this gives San Mateo county 16 points and Alameda county 12 points. An aggregate of 21 points will be necessary for winning the sweepstakes award.

Last year San Mateo county was able to win nine of eleven first prizes with its entries of flowers; taking first places in asters, carnations, chrysanthemums, flowering plants, gladioli, ornamental plants, roses, strawflowers and sweetpeas.

Today at the fair the judging will be for asters. Entires for this flower are being made by the Koshland estate, Hillsborough; and Mt. Oliver nursery. The last day of the fair will feature zinias. Entries on that day will be by the Koshland estate; Mrs. August Taylor, Atherton; and N. Nogano, San Carlos.

And in the meantime while the county is winning first prizes on its choice blossoms at the state fair the shipment of these flowers continues from Redwood City. There have been shipped to date this year 14 carloads of chrysanthemums from here, this is 800 boxes in excess of the shipment at this time last year.

It is forecast that this year's shipment of chrysanthemums will require more than 600 cars, the number sent from here last year.

City Lights to be Colored for Kiku Matsuri Festival

Acting on the request of C. F. Andrews, chairman of the decorating committee for the Kiku Matsuri, (Chrysanthemum Festival) to be staged in Redwood City September 28 to October 3, the city council Tuesday night, on motion of Councilmen McCarthy and Lambert, gave permission to the committee to utilize the present "Redwood City" electric sign across the highway at Broadway for building a Torii, or Japanese gate, also to remove the white globes in the lighting system on Broadway and Main street and replace them with colored globes in order to carry out a scheme for decorating the light standards with chrysanthemums during the week of the festival. Permission was also given the committee to stretch strings of lights from standard to standard and use Japanese lanterns as part of the decorating scheme. All costs in connection with the work, as well as protecting the city against liability, would be taken care of by the committee, Andrews assured the board.

Council To Ask County Aid in Widening of Woodside Road

The aid of the county supervisors is to be asked in the raising of funds for widening the Woodside Road within the city limits of Redwood. This was determined at the meeting of the city council last night following a lengthy discussion between members of the board, City Manager E. A. Rolison, City Engineer C. L. Dimmitt and Robert Jones, president of the Greater South Redwood Improvement Club. Jones appeared before the board and made an appeal for immediate action to bring about the widening of roadway. He called attention to the recent accident in which one man was killed and several persons injured, when the car in which they were riding ran off the narrow pavement, skidded and plunged into a ditch alongside the highway. Numerous accidents have occurred in this same way, said Jones, but fortunately no other fatalities have resulted.

Mayor Stafford and the other members of the board agreed that something should be done to relieve the situation and to afford motorists using the road protection.

City Engineer Dimmitt estimated the cost of putting two foot permanent oil macadam shoulders on either side of road for the full distance within the city limits at $6,000. City Manager Rolison called attention to the new law, which permits boards of supervisors to appropriate gas tax money for street improvements within municipalities. In view of the fact that the Woodside road is used largely by motorists residing outside the city, it was felt that the county should be asked to aid in financing the cost of constructing the shoulders. On motion of Councilman McCarthy and McNulty, the city manager was directed to make verbal and written application to the board of supervisors for an appropriation of $2,000.

Pigeon Farm Causes Kick By Neighbor

Iris Street Resident Says Pigeons Flying Over Are Nuisance

A year ago it was the fox farm off the Woodside road that caused the city council members a lot of grief for many months before steps were finally taken by the board to have the farm removed. Now its a pigeon farm that threatens to disturb the peace and tranquility of the city fathers.

T. S. Carp, residing at 224 Iris street, addressed a communication to the council Tuesday night in which he complained about his next door neighbor keeping a large number of carrier pigeons, which according to Carp, are allowed to fly about during the day time, much to the annoyance and disturbance of other people in the district. Carp was present at the meeting Tuesday night and asked for some relief in the matter.

City Manager Rolison reported that Carp had complained to him and to City Health Officer Drathman about the pigeons, but that there seemed to be nothing the city could do to offer relief, as there is no ordinance that prohibits the keeping of pigeons within the city.

City Councilman Dusel said he thought there should be some way to protect property owners from such nuisance. Other members of the board felt the same way about it, and it was finally decided, on motion of Councilmen McCarthy and Hildebrant, to have the health officer interview the owner of the pigeons and urge him to either remove the birds to some locality outside the city limits or else keep them caged, the board intimating that if the owner is not agreeable to co-operate in the matter, remedy will be found in the passage of an ordinance regulating the keeping of pigeons.

Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock has been set by Coroner J. C. McGovern for an inquest into the death of Thomas Atkins, who was killed when a car in which he was riding crashed into a pole on the Woodside road early Monday morning. The inquest will be held at the parlors of Layng & Tinney.

Funeral services were held for Atkins yesterday from the Layng & Tinney parlors, with the service in the chapel of the Cypress Lawn cemetery.

Atkins was killed while riding with Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Mock of Woodside road. The car driven by Mock skidded on the pavement and ran into the ditch which parallels the roadway. Atkins was pinned under the car when it struck a power pole in the ditch.

Blackmail Plot Clears Mystery Of Bay Shore Hit-Runner Death

One hit-run case which had been given up as lost by the San Mateo county authorities was brought to light this week, and by an unusual chain of circumstances. The matter had its inception back in December of 1929. On December 21 of that year John Figone, a rancher of this county, was found fatally injured on the Bayshore road as the result of having been struck by a hit-run driver. Figone died, and nothing was learned of who it was who had struck him.

Tuesday of this week Mrs. Minnie Boring of San Francisco complained to the police of that city that she had been swindeled out of $250 by a John Allen Davis, who claimed that he was a private detective.

Mrs. Boring admitted that it was she who drove the car which struck Figone, and claimed that Davis had come to her and claimed to be a private detective hired by the heirs of the dead man. He told her, she said, that if she paid $500, the Figone heirs would not prosecute her. She paid the man $250, all that she had at the time, and made arrangements to pay the other $250 Tuesday. Mrs. Boring secured the money sooner than she expected, however, and instead of waiting for Davis to come after it, took it to the detective agency which he claimed to represent. There she was told that Davis was not known and that she had been defrauded. She was finally persuaded to go to the police with her story and a warrant was sworn out for Davis. He was arrested when he called for the money at the time which had been arranged.

Mrs. Boring was also placed under arrest and charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Figone.

Figone was killed on the Bayshore highway in the northern part of the county. Mrs. Boring admitted having struck the man, but said that he seemed not to have been badly hurt, and refused to be taken to a hospital after the accident. She said that the first intimation which she had that he was dead was when Davis came to her and demanded $500 to prevent criminal protection.

Mrs. Boring was brought to the jail here Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Tom Maloney.

County To Guarantee Ambulance Costs in Case of Accidents on Highways; Also Hospital Charge

Persons injured in automobile accidents anywhere in San Mateo county will be given ambulance service from now on, and the county will guarantee the bill. The county will also guarantee the first 24 hours hospitalization bill.

This was the action taken by the board of supervisors Tuesday when the matter of supplying ambulance service was brought before the board by Supervisor Thompson of Burlingame, after a telegram had been received from Supervisor E. J. Spaulding of San Franicisco, chairman of the San Francisco airport committee.

In his telegram Supervisor Spaulding offered a portion of the San Francisco airport as a site for an emergency hospital. Some means of caring for persons injured in accidents on the Bayshore road should be provided, he said, in view of the increasing number of bad accidents on this highway. This matter is being considered by the San Mateo county board of supervisors.

On the suggestion of Supervisor Thompson the board voted to make arrangements with the five ambulances available in this county, to have these vehicles available at all times of the day and night. The county will guarantee the payment of the ambulance charge in the event that the victim of the accident is found to be unable to meet the charge.

The board went further than this and voted to guarantee the first 24 hours of hospitalization for accident victims at the nearest hospital. In the event that the patient is found to be unable to pay the hospital charges, he will then be removed to the county community hospital at Beresford.

This arrangement, it is believed, will prevent the repetition of occurances such as took place twice last week on the Bayshore highway, when injured persons lay for long periods beside the highway because it was impossible to find an ambulance to take them to the hospital.

The first case of this kind was when James McCarthy, a 16-year-old San Francisco boy lay for more than an hour after having been run over by a trailer of truck. The Mission emergency hospital refused to send an ambulance because the accident occured on this side of the county line, and a long delay was experienced in securing an ambulance from the South San Francisco hospital.

A similar delay was experienced a few days later when Giovanni Petri was struck and fatally injured by a hit-run driver at almost the same place. An ambulance was finally secured from the Mills Memorial hospital in San Mateo to take Petri to the hospital.

Under the new arrangement ambulances will be available at all times. The ambulances which will be used in this work are those of Layng & Tinney of this city; Mills Memorial hospital, San Mateo; George W. Sneider, San Mateo; William Crosby, Burlingame; and South San Francisco hospital, South San Francisco.

Hit Run Driver Gets Jail Term

Charles E. Morrell, a mechanic of Oakland, was sentenced to a term of 90 days in the county jail as the result of an accident in San Mateo Sunday. Morrell is alleged to have driven off after the accident, and Officer Trinta of the San Mateo police had to draw a gun and threaten to shoot before Morrell was brought to a stop. He appeared before Judge Louis F. Kinnell late Tuesday and was given the jail sentence.

Former Resident Passes Away in S. F.

Funeral services were held from St. Anne's church in San Francisco this morning for Sergeant Frank E. Mahoney, one of San Francisco's first traffic officers and a former resident of Redwood City, who passed away Tuesday night, following a year's illness.

Man Robbed on Skyline After Drinking Party

Daly City Man Finds Victim Thrown from Car Near Skyline Road

John Daroughmis remembers taking a drink in San Francisco. He was found later beside the Colma road not far from the Skyline boulevard suffering from a fractured shoulder, scalp injuries and numerous cuts and bruises. He was short $150 which he had with him in San Francisco.

Daroughmis, an insurance agent of San Francisco, met a friend while walking along the Marina Tuesday. The two men had several drinks, and were then joined by two women. They went to a hotel whose name Daroughmis does not remember, and while there another man, who claimed to be an officer, joined the party and an argument ensued. That is all Daroughmis remembered.

He was found beside the road, apparently where he had been thrown out of an automobile, by Louis Gregory, who took him to the South San Francisco hospital. Gregory told Constable S. A. Landini that just before he found the man beside the road, he had seen a car with two persons in it leaving the spot where the man was lying.

Constable Begins Search for Yacht Thieves on Coast

Believe Men Who Left Boat Were Not Drowned; Cabin Stripped

Belief that two thieves who with a third companion, stole the yacht Yankee from the San Francisco yacht harbor Monday afternoon, and later abandoned it on the reefs of Point San Pedro, escaped drowning, was strengthened by the fact that a careful watch maintained along the shore for the supposedly drowned men failed to disclose any evidence of a tragedy.

The yacht was seen to drift onto the rocks off the point by campers on the beach, and three men were seen to be washed from the boat. One was helped ashore by campers, and taken into a tent and fed. While the youth was eating, the siren of an approaching life guard truck was heard and the young man bolted from the tent and dashed away through the brush.

A search was immediately started for the other two men from the boat, but they were not found, and it was at first believed that they had been drowned. It was later learned that the boat had been stolen. An investigation of the yacht disclosed that the cabin of the boat had been stripped of everything movable, and it is believed that the vessel was allowed to drift onto the reef intentionally instead of accidentally as was supposed when the wreck was at first sited.

The yacht was the property of Arthur and Sydney Ford, brothers of San Francisco. They said after investigating the vessel that the men had evidently staged a liquor party on the boat before abandoning her. They said there was no liquor aboard the Yankee when she was taken.

Operations of salvage are now underway. Constable S. A. Landini is tracing clews which he believes will lead him to the thieves, whom he believes to be residents of this county.

Ice Company Charges Ordinace Violation

In a communication to the city council Tuesday night, J. E. Baughn manager of the Redwood Ice Delivery, charged the University Creamery with a violation of the city zoning ordinance, in that the firm is manufacturing ice for commercial purposes at their place of business on upper Broadway, which is not in the industial zone.

The matter was ordered referred to City Manager E. A. Rolison and City Building Inspector I. C. Drathman to investigate and ascertain whether or not the zoning ordinance is being violated.

Oakland—Dr. David Froehlich received permit to erect $20,000 medical office building at 3223 Telegraph Avenue.

JUDGE J. J. TRABUCCO TO RULE ON MOTION OF NEW FLOOD TRIAL

San Francisco Jurist Appointed by Judicial Council; To Hear Motion on Monday Next

The motion of attorneys for Mrs. Constance May Gavin for a new trial in Mrs. Gavin's contest of the Flood will, will be heard before Judge J. J. Trabucco of San Francisco Monday at 10 o'clock at Judge Buck's court here. Judge Trabucco was appointed to hear the motion by judicial council in San Francisco, and word of the appointment was received by County Clerk E. B. Hinman yesterday afternoon from B. Grant Taylor, secretary of the council.

Judge Trabucco will decide whether or not the evidence submitted by Attorneys John Taaffe and Maxwell McNutt, representing Mrs. Gavin, is sufficient to disqualify Judge Buck from ruling on the motion for a new trial. The motion for a new trial was made before Judge Buck by Attorney Taaffe, who then requested that Judge Buck be disqualified from ruling on the motion because of his action in directing a verdict against Mrs. Gavin, although ten of the twelve members of the jury expressed themselves favoring a verdict in favor of Mrs. Gavin, and refused to sign the directed verdict of Judge Buck.

City Tax Rate Not to Change

Rate of $1.30 Set by Board For Old Town; South Redwood, $1.06

Redwood City's tax rate for the fiscal year 1931-1932 will remain the same as it was last year. This was determined Tuesday night with the final adoption by the city council of an ordinance presented by City Attorney Mansfield calling for the amount of money to be raised through taxation for carrying on the business of the city during the coming twelve months and also to maintain the public library.

The tax rate on each $100 assessment will be as follows:

Old Town	$1.30
Annex	1.29
South Redwood and Carmelita Manor	1.06

The total amount of money that will be raised by taxation is $169,000. The ordinance was adopted, on motion of Councilmen Hildebrant and Dusel.

The resolution establishing the tax rate was adopted by the board, on motion of Councilmen McCarthy and Hildebrant.

Other Business

With the understanding that the property owners will furnish the rock, the council Tuesday night directed City Engineer C. L. Dimmitt to make temporary improvements to the west end of Poplar avenue and also a block on Juniperro avenue. The work was ordered at the request of one of the property owners on Redwood avenue.

An application was received from C. R. Burkhardt of Burlingame for a permit to conduct an automobile sales room and show place in the old Foley garage on Broadway. Following a report by City Building Inspector I. C. Drathman that in his judgment the building is unsafe for that purpose, the board delayed action in the matter until the next meeting.

The local unit of the International Union of Operating Engineers submitted the scale of wages affecting that craft and which, according to the communication has been adopted as the uniform scale for the State of California. The communication was ordered filed.

Permission to subdivide his lot at the southeast corner of Arlington road and Oakdale street, in Wellesley Park, in order to erect another house in the rear of the lot, was granted the owner, on motion of Councilmen Lambert and McNulty.

The board granted Joseph Truett of 310 East Brewster avenue a junk dealer's license. His place of business is with the Pioneer Wrecking Co. at San Carlos.

A communication was received from Mrs. Lurline Roth of Woodside, thanking the board for its co-operation and aid in the recent San Mateo County Horse Show at Atherton.

A communication was received from Bruce Gibson of San Mateo asking the co-operation and financial aid of the board for the San Mateo County Floral Festival to be held at San Mateo October 23, 24 and 25.

San Mateo Man To Audit Books

On the recommendation of City Manager E. A. Rolison, the city council Tuesday night appointed C. E. Piatt, certified public accountant of San Mateo, to audit the books of the city for the fiscal year 1931-1932. The selection was made, on motion of Councilmen Lambert and Dusel. Piatt, who will receive $500 for his services, was selected from among half a dozen applicants. He has audited the books of San Mateo county for the past several years.

Residents Ask Time For Street Payments

With Robert Jones, president of the Greater South Redwood Improvement Club acting as spokesman a number of property owners affected by the Hudson street extension assessment, appeared before the city council Tusday night and asked for an extension of time in which to pay their assessments. Jones explained that the shortness of time in which the payments must be made is working a hardship on many of the property owners. He also complained that in a number of cases it was felt that the assessments were too high and asked it something could be done to reduce the amount.

City Attorney Albert Mansfield explained that in view of the fact that the assessments have already been approved and confirmed, the board has no further jurisdiction in the matter, either with regard to the changing of the assessments or extending the time of payment, the proceedings having been carried out under the State street opening act of 1899. The board must follow the law implicitly, said Mansfield, and and diviation, he explained, would invalidate the proceedings. The only relief possible, he stated, would be to delay the publishing of the notice of delinquency, the amount of penalty for failure to pay the assessment at the time it falls due being five percent. The matter was left in the hands of City Manager E. A. Rolison and City Attorney Mansfield to work out some plan that will make it as easy as possible for the property owners to pay the assessment.

City Council Members to Attend Del Monte Unemployment Meeting

Mayor Daniel R. Stafford was named official representative for Redwood City at the conference of the California League of Municipalities to be held at Del Monte Septmber 21 and 22, called primarily for the purpose of meeting the unemployment situation in California this winter. Other members of the council are planning to attend the important meeting.

In discussing the unemployment situation at the council meeting Tuesday night, Mayor Stafford said:

"We should profit by the experienc of other cities and not start soup kitchens in Redwood City this winter. It has been proven that these kitchens do not give the relief intended, taking care of largely only the "floating" population. Our problem will be to find work for those out of employment and not provide charity."

Americans Distrust Cities

Walter Lippman, brilliant editor of the New York World in its last days, has been devoting his enforced leisure to a study of popular government in America. He finds that the outstanding failure of Americans in the science of politics is in the way they run their big cities.

"The government of the cities is the one conspicuous failure of the United States," declares Mr. Lippman in the Woman's Home Companion. "It is archaic in design, unsuited to its purpose, unsatisfactory in its operation, and profligate in spending the tax-payers' money. The underlying tradition of America is antagonistic to cities. We have never governed cities well because we are deeply suspicious of their very existence. We have never in our hearts accepted them and cherished them. We view the city as a kind of dangerous disease."

Nevertheless cities have grown huge. For while American sentiment has frowned upon them, American national policy and practical inventiveness and money-making ability have united to cultivate their rapid growth. The tariff has been a great city builder by putting a premium on goods that are produced in cities.

Mr. Lippman comments: "For 150 years, while we have maintained our ideals of rural society, we have been busy creating the most extensive urban society in the world. Less than a quarter of the nation now lives on farms. In the last 10 years every state east of the Mississippi has lost in the number of its farms. In the last 20 years while we have added 17,000,000 to our total population, we have lost 5,000,000 in the number of people living on farms."

It is a puzzling anomaly that more and more Americans live in cities, yet the nation as a whole despises them.

The great cultural achievements of the ages have largely centered in cities. Our modern America shuns the glory of the city. Englishmen are proud of London and Frenchmen of Paris. Americans are ashamed and distrustful of all their cities.

American Legion To Fight Fire

The American Legion, Department of California, has made fire prevention one of its permanent activities. It is organizing committees on Fire Prevention and Public Safety throughout the state and has instructed its national committeeman to present a resolution to the next national convention—at Detroit in September—to extend the fight against fire to every Legion Post in the country. In aggressive support of this resolution, the California Legion on August 22nd conducted a national radio broadcast, sponsored by the Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific.

One leading authority states that the entry of the Legion into this work is the greatest single impetus ever given the cause of fire prevention. It is earnestly to be hoped, on the part of the general public, that the resolution to place the movement on a national basis will succeed. This nation's disgraceful annual fire loss is largely due to public apathy and indifference. Too many of us regard fire as being the other fellow's business, not realizing that we all pay for it, in higher insurance rates, taxes, unemployment, loss of business and so on, whether our own property is burned or not.

Each year some ten thousand lives and half a billion dollars in property values are destroyed by fire. Here is a genuine "red menace" that threatens the life and security of every citizen. The example of the Legion of California is a fine one that should be followed by every organization interested in the public welfare.

Figger

The American Motorists' Association is suggesting plans to eliminate discrimination between motorists of various states in the matter of license fees.

It is said that in the forty-eight states and the District of Columbia there are no less than fifteen different systems in vogue and the association is seeking to standardize these different methods.

"The president has wisely urged that the wage scale universally recognized be maintained. Those who are attempting to frustrate this wise admonition by displacing thoroughly competent workmen in the intrests of those who are willing to work at an unreasonable compensation are certainly contributing to the extension of the present economic depression."—Bishop James A. Freeman.

Some Reasonable Don'ts

Keep matches away from children; provide closed metal box out of reach. Teach children the dangers of playing with fire. Do not go into closets with lighted matches or candles.

Don't permit rubbish to accumulate in basement, attic or elsewhere about the premises. Provide metal receptacles for ashes and don't dump them where they will come in contact with combustible materials. Provide a separate can for rubbish. Never mix ashes and rubbish.

Don't burn trash, brush or rubbish near buildings, fences or other property, nor permit children to build bonfires. Provide substantial metal trash-burners.

Don't connect gas-stoves, gas heaters or gas-plates with flexible tubing or rubber hose. Replace with rigid iron pipe or provide elbow or bracket connection with cut-off valve on rigid pipe connection.

Don't hang electric light cords on nails or other metal supports, nor permit amateur electricians to change or install wiring. Employ competent and authorized electricians.

Don't throw away lighted matches, cigars or cigarettes. Be sure they are "cold." The twin cause "matches-smoking" burned up twenty-nine million dollars worth of property in the United States in one year. To smoke in garages, or in bed, or around stables containing hay, is deliberately to invite disaster.

Make sure that all members of your family know the number to call and the manner of reporting a fire by telephone. Don't leave the telephone until you know that the alarm and the location of the fire has been correctly received by the fire department.

Call the operator and tell her that you want to report a fire.

Shortening a Bread Line

A news dispatch from Harrisburg, Pa., embodied an interesting little experiment in relief. The Welfare Federation of that city had been for sometime feeding 150 men twice a day. It decided to ask a little work in exchange for food. Accordingly, it was ordered that meal tickets could be had only in exchange for an hour's work in a truck garden. The federation provided transportation to the scene of work for those of the hungry unemployed who were willing to buy a meal with labor. On the first day only 100 of the 150 did the specified work. By the end of the week the number who were ready to work two hours for two meals had fallen to between thirty and forty. One would like more details. Were the men who refused to work physically able to accept the terms of the welfare federation? How many real malingerers were identified by the sifting process? Anyhow, the test seems worth while, and might well be adopted in other cities.

With so many flyers sailing over Siberia, we believe it is time that the League of Nations did something about Siberian geography. Names like Ztdntbernuvkrzsk should be changed to something pronounceable like Jonesville.

The Editorial Circuit Rider

(A symposium of editorial comment from California Newspapers.)
By MELVIN LORD

What is California going to do about unemployment, oil and water?

California editors fail to agree on the answer, or answers, to such a question. In fact the proposal forwarded by Governor Rolph in favor of a special session of the legislature has been received with everything from cheers to jeers.

Feeling that "something should be done" the editors nevertheless believe that a special session of the legislature would be valueless unless a proper plan is prepared before the meeting.

"If Governor Rolph and his advisers have a plan of relief for the unemployed," says The Los Angeles Evening Express, "then an extra session of the legislature, to act upon and put the plan in operation, should meet without delay.

"However, if no plan has been made ready, it is unlikely the outcome would be found beneficial to the unemployed or to the state at large. What seems lacking is a definite program of necessary public works."

The Pittsburg Post Dispatch, however, favors the extraordinary session and declares "Governor Rolph has made a popular move in announcing that the special session of the legislature will consider unemployment in addition to the unified water conservation plan and oil legislation."

Under the heading, "It would accomplish nothing," The Santa Rosa Press-Democrat believes "something might be done about unemployment, although that is problematical. To expect the oil and water questions to be settled at such a session is out of the question."

"As a matter of fact," says The Hanford Daily Sentinel, "there has been too much propaganda on unemployment. It is pointing toward a paternalism that may result in a dole such as England is now trying to get away from. There seems to be no general demand from the state to plan so extensively for unemployment."

The Berkeley Daily Gazette believes unemployment is more of a local problem. The publication states: "In the end, so far as California is concerned with the problem within its boundaries, communities will doubtless be called upon to care for the jobless and destitute. No doubt, state aid of some character will be provided where demands are in excess of the community's ability to meet them."

Leaving unemployment for a time, The Hanford Sentinel lauds the stand taken by Rolph when he assured the state he had not thought of curtailing the oil flow of the state wtih militia.

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

SHEILA ALLEN, bound for Europe in a tourist cabin, has a cabinmate,

CONSTANCE KERR, a millionaire's daughter, who is her twin in looks. Sheila, after years in a rural town, is seeking adventure.

She has refused to marry her guardian, YOUNG DOCTOR MALCOM BAXTER. Constance tells Sheila she is Heaven-sent-a means of escape from a terrible mess.

Constance is fleeing from her husband, THE COUNT DE BELLEFONTE, whom she married that morning.

She consented to marry him after a quarrel with HARRY EDMONDS, with whom she is desperately in love.

His letters begging her forgiveness are kept from her by her mother. She finds them immediately after her marriage. Realizing that she can never be the Count's wife, she takes passage for Europe at once. Harry is in England.

She begs Sheila to impersonate her in Paris for a few days, while she seeks Harry in London, to try to find a way out of her muddle.

Sheila, scenting adventure agrees.

Constance gives Sheila her clothes and coaches her for the role she is to play. A first-class passenger.

TOMMY FITZGERALD, an old beau of Constance's, sees Sheila and hails her as Constance. Sheila tells him he has made a mistake.

At Southhampton Constance leaves the ship as Sheila Allen, with all of Sheila's effects, including her passport.

At Harve, Fitzgerald sees Sheila with Constance's passport and she says she is the heiress, and explains the tourist passage as payment of a bet. A strange woman embraces her as an old friend.

There she receives a message from the Count, who is in Paris.

Harry Edmonds arrives in Paris. Sheila is panic-stricken. She wonders where Constance is.

To escape both Harry and the informs her aunt in Baden-Baden that her neice is ill. The aunt radios Mr. Kerr, who radios Sheila that he is coming to Paris.

She succeeds in convising Aunt Sophia that her presence is not required in Paris. A message from Mr. Kerr tells that the his yacht is disabled and that he cannot come to Paris for some time.

Harry urges her to marry him immediately. She puts him off.

The Baronne is angry, for she wants a clear field for her stepson, CARLO, whom she is anxious to marry off.

To keep Harry pacified, Sheila agrees to announcing their engagement shortly.

Harry denies this and the Count challenges him to a duel.

Sheila, in desperation, to prevent the duel, confesses that she is not Constance Kerr.

Thecount sends for Constance's aunt, stying that she will know her own niece. The old lady, on arriving, is not told what has happened, and she accepts Sheila without question.

CHAPTER 45

MYSTIFICATION

As the Olympian approaches Southhampton, Dr. Mac continued to be tortured by thoughts of the mysterious Harry. He could only concluded that he was some one whom Sheila had met on her travels. But the man must have played a very important part in her life, if she talked so incessently of him in her delirium. That thought cast the doctor into a depth of gloom that was noticeable to every one. His feeling of depression made him shun his fellow passengers so persistently that he became known as "the hermit."

His communications with the hospital brought him little news that was reassuring. The operation to relieve the pressure on the brain had been performed, and the patient had not lost any ground, but neither had she gained. Dr. Gibbons was hopeful that the sight of some one she had known might help in restoring her memory.

Before receiving the message that had introduced Harry into the situation, Dr. Mac had decided that he would bring Sheila home as soon as possible. Whether she agreed to his suggestion or opposed it, he was going to insist that she return with him.

Now he wondered what Harry might say, if he put in an appearance. Perhaps Harry was Schela's husband. A devasting thought! Dr. Mac reflected that he really knew nothing of Sheila's life since he said good-by to her the day she left for New York. And that seemed years ago!

The five days aboard ship had stretched out interminably. He reminded himself of the many times when he had longed for the rest of an ocean voyage. Now he found it more wearying than the most arduous of his days at home. In a frenzy of impatience at what seemed a thousand unnecessary delays, he left the ship at Southhampton and took the boat train for London.

As he entered the city, it seemed to him a cavern of grayness and desolation. And Sheila had been alone there had been injured, was now desperately ill!

On leaving the train, he rushed at once to a telephone and called the hospital. Dr. Gibbons was not there but the nurse came to the telephone. Dr. Mac explained that he was Miss Allen's former guardian and that he had come to London in response to Dr. Gibbon's message. Could he see Miss Allen, if he came to the hospital at once? When could he see Dr. Gibbons?

The nurse asked him to wait and called the house doctor, who said that Dr. Gibbons had said that Miss Allen must not see any one at present, not for several days, in fact But would Dr. Baxter call Dr. Gibbons at his home? - - - No, there was no change in Miss Allen's condition—nothing to add to the bulletin Dr. Baxter had received before landing. Her temperature was normal now, as he had been informed, but there was no sign of returning memory.

Dr. Mac sighed and shook his head. He called Dr. Gibbon's home, but was told that the doctor was out. Then he gathered up his luggage and, hailed a cab, told the driver to take him to a hotel in the vicinity of King's hospital. From the hotel he called Dr. Gibbons again, and, this time, succeeded in reaching him.

"Come to my house," Dr. Gibbons urged. "There are some questions that I want to ask, and some things that I must tell you before you see Miss Allen.

Jolting over the London cobblestones in a cab that smelled of musk and seemed devoid of springs, Dr. Mac wondered what Dr. Gibbons had to tell him. The cab halted before a gloomy, imposing-looking residence, and he was out and up the steps in a jiffy. Dr. Gibbons received him in a book-lined study, and led him to a seat by the fire.

"I had expected to find you an elderly man," said Dr. Gibbons, smilingly. "You are rather young to have been Miss Allen's guardian."

"It was quite an informal guardianship," answered Dr. Mac. "I merely looked after a few business details for her. But tell me, please, how is she, and when may I see her."

Dr. Gibbons looked grave. "There is no change in her condition, as they told you at the hospital, I presume. As to seeing her—I suggest that you wait a day or so, until we have had some reaction from the operation. I am hoping that the sight of a familiar face will stimulate her memory. By the way, have you any idea as to the identity of this Harry for whom she called in her delirium?"

Dr. Mac shook his head. "I can't imagine who he is. Some one she met after she left home, I fancy."

"Whoever he is," said Dr. Gibbons, "he means a great deal to her. She seems to think that she has offended him in some way and wants to see him and beg his forgiveness."

"I am more puzzled than ever," said Dr. Mac. "Has she mentioned other persons?"

"A few, but not in a way that would indicate that they meant a great deal to her. By the way, if it's not asking too much, can you tell me how she happened to be in London? The hospital authorities were greatly mystified by the fact that no one called to see her or made inquiries——"

"But she was an utter stranger here," interrupted Dr. Mac. "She's just a youngster who was making her first trip abroad on a few hundred dollars.——."

"The investigation after the accident revealed the fact that she was registered at the Athenae, and she had a large sum of money in her purse when she was brought to the hospital, and there was more in her name in the hotel safe," said Dr. Gibbons. "And she had made a reservation to go to Paris by airplane on the morning of the accident."

Dr. Mac was silent as he stared into the fire. He was beginning to understand the situation now. This mysterious Harry was undoubtedly Sheila's husband. Perhaps she met him on board ship. But what had separated them? Why did Sheila feel that she must beg his forgiveness.

Dr. Mac returned to his hotel, more shaken and confused than ever.

"Come to the hospital tomorrow at four," said Dr. Gibbons. "What do you say to letting the patient hear your voice, without being told who you are? Sometimes that stirs the memory."

"But it's not my voice that she's waiting to hear," thought Dr. Mac gloomily. "I realize that now." Aloud he said: "At four, doctor, I'll come, of course.

Politically Speaking

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 9 — (UP)—Politics, like history, has a habit of repeating itself.

Take for example the present row between Vierling Kersey state superintendent of public instruction, and the Rolph administration over state printing of public school textbooks.

It has a parallel in the ruckus between Will C. Wood and the state board of education back in 1925-27. Wood a stalwart Progressive Republican faced an unfriendly board dominated by Governor Friend W. Richardson.

The crisis came when Wood appointed presidents of the San Francisco and San Jose state teachers colleges and the board refused to confirm them.

Of course in the present dispute, the board of education is supporting Kersey. But it won't be for long. Governor Rolph is already "packing" the board with men pledged to a program of state printing of textbooks. Not a member will the governor appoint to the board without conferring with State Printer Harry Hammond.

The first replacement was that of Charles Albert Adams, San Francisco. He was regarded by advocates of state printing as the most "dangerous" man on the board. He was succeeded by Former state senator Daniel C. Murphy, labor leader, who will do Rolph's bidding on the matter of textbook printing.

"There's still another vacancy caused by expiration of the term of Mrs. Minnie B. Bradford, Sacramento. Next spring, when the terms of E. P. Clarke, Riverside; Mary Roberts Coolidge, Berkeley, and Allen T. Archer, Los Angeles, expire, Governor Rolph will be in control. And history will begin to repeat itself with a vengeance.

Back in 1927 the state legislature saw the consequences of this double-headed system of state control and decided to remedy it. This legislature referred a constitutional amendment to the people at the 1928 election which was promptly voted down.

Briefly it proposed to centralize state school administration under one central agency a new state board of education of 10 members, serving 10-year terms, who would appoint a state director of education. This director would assume the duties of state superintendent of public instruction, a position that would eventually go out of existence.

Opponents to the measure pointed out that long term boards had a tendency to become autocratic, and that changing an elective official to an appointive one robbed the people of the right of self-government.

The measure lost by a vote of 714,411 to 551,858, a very decisive vote as far as the people were concerned. Whether it was a good measure or not remains for the future to decide. But the fact remains that California still has a dual system of school administration that leads to very bitter fights between the higher-ups, and that as a result the schools suffer. The single or centralized system is in use in New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and other states leading in education, and seems to have produced no ill effects.

JERSEY POLICE HEAD PRAISES FLYING COPS

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 10— (UP) —There is no better traffic cop than an airplane according to Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf commander of the State Police of New Jersey.

A pioneer in using planes to avoid jams on roads threatened with congestion, repeated trials have satisfied him that a flying observer can drop messages to traffic officers below telling them just how to straighten out trouble.

But that is only one of many values Colonel Schwarzhopf has demonstrated for police planes. His troopers have hunted great stretches for fugitives who have just committed crimes discovered stills concealed in spots so lonesome that troopers on the ground could have hunted indefinitely without success and trapped poachers raiding oyster beds, or private fish ponds.

INVENTOR PERFECTS DEVICE TO HOLD PLANES STATIONARY

HAMMOND, Ind., Sept. 10—(UP) —A device by which airplanes may be held stationary while in mid-air has been perfected here by Clayton B. Clark, he has announced. He believes his invention would be valuable to endurance fliers and aviators in non-stop flights.

Six cups, placed on the wing near the cockpit, receive air from a metal tube and reflect it on the back of the wings, keeping the pressure equal on both sides, Clark said in explaining the basis of his invention. The device appeared to be successful in a test flight, according to Clark.

OLD WATER MILL STILL WORKS

MOSCOW, Tenn., Sept. 10 (U.P.) —A century old water mill built on the banks of the Wolf River, a half mile from the center of town, is operated on Saturdays by its owner, W. H. Pearce, and farmers for miles around bring grain to him to be ground into flour. It is one of the few remaining mills of its type in the south.

Los Angeles—Construction underway on swimming pool and stadium in Exposition Park.

BUILDERS OF CALIFORNIA

5 of the 8 largest clay products manufacturers in California are depositors in Bank of America

Clay, shaped on an Indian's thigh

MOLDED on the thighs of Indian workers and baked over charcoal fires, much of the original roofing tile on California's missions is well preserved after 150 years!

Modern builders, too, use tile and brick in many forms for permanence and beauty.

But the tedious methods of the Padres have given way to ingenious molds, special machinery and white-hot kilns.

And now 5,000 Californians are engaged in producing 30 million dollars' worth of clay products yearly.

This industry finds Bank of America's statewide service particularly adapted to its needs.

Large concerns simplify the handling of payrolls by depositing funds at branches near their plants.

After selected clays are mined and blended, weeks may elapse before finished products are ready for sale. Funds advanced by this Bank aid in financing production and distribution.

Another appreciated service is the assistance of branch managers in bringing about friendly business contacts throughout the state.

The same advantages that have led 5 of the 8 largest clay products manufacturers in California to choose this Bank, are available to you—through a convenient Bank of America branch in your community.

LONGER JACKETS PROMINENT IN NEW FALL SUITS THIS YEAR

PINCHED-IN WAIST EFFECT IMPORTANT

We're not referring to skirt lengths when we say "Longer" is the fall suit keynote—because skirt lengths for this type of garment remain aproximately as they have been for the last season. But when it comes to jackets, the three-quarter and seven-eighths lengths are going to be infinitely smarter than the very short jackets, although these, too, can't avoid a certain dergee of popularity because of their youthful character. In furs, the greater preference is being given the long-haired pelts, and we find that lynx, natural wolf, fox in all its variations, (particularly red, silver and blue) and fitch will all be frequent suit trimmings. Of course, the flat pelts aren't going to be at all neglected, as may be judged by many of the Paris showings of suits and ensembles elaborated with caracul, Persian, galyak, seal, and broadtial.

These new suits are colorful due, of course to the Colonial influence that has passed its paint brush over every phase of woman's fashion, and we find them combining tones that are new, in intriguing ways we've never seen before. First of all, it's difficult to distinguish a suit from an ensemble, because ensemble formality has extended to suits, and the blouse-and-skirt influence in suits has extended strongly to ensembles. However, call them what we will, the new outfits are as attractive as one can wish, and you can get your clearest idea of the many charming qualities they have by accurate descriptions of what promises to be important types.

Jacket-Like Blouses

Before we go on, we want to say a word about the blouses, because they promise to be one of the most important wardrobe items in every fall collection. Vionnet was first to advance the light top with the dark skirt this past spring, and the idea proved so complete a success that it has become accepted as a fashion classic . . . particularly in view of the fact that the blouse with a jacket silhouette was one of the midseason-showing favorites; color contrast is going to be expressed throughout the fall fashion chart, and this newer type of blouse gives both woolens and silks an equal share of importance in one outfit.

Leather Jackets For Sports

Raglan Type Favored

The leather coat or jacket is a perfect fall and winter garment because it has the ideal facility of adapting itself to the weather—it's comfortable on warm days, and warm on cold days. This season, leather coats are particularly interesting and swagger, and we find that they favor double breasted styling in almost every instance.

Buttons

The leather jacket, preferably in suede, uses large bone buttons, norfolk pockets, raglan sleeves, and a fairly wide notched collar, thereby becoming a perfect combination of several important details at once. Similarly, a full length coat favors the pencil silhouette, by using straight lines through the body, and then attaching a bias skirt section from below the hip down. Raglan sleeves and patch pockets, and very wide revers make it a particularly smart wardrobe item to wear with the tailored woolen frocks.

Seven-Eighth Popular

Glove leather, suede and chamois are the most popular mediums for this type of garment, which may vary in length from hip to finger-tip, then three-quarter and seven-eighths, and full length. Colors this year are particularly interesting, and though black, dark brown and navy continue to be stable colors there are new tones such as a gold brown, Jungle green, a more vivid blue, and red.

For Winter Sports

Later in the winter, if you take to active sports, you're going to want one of the very youthful lambskin jackets, which are particularly good for skating purposes. The smartest of them are in shades of tan, and we see some in white and black. They are novel because they are decorated in Indian designs and feature the typical bandings of narrow strips of fur.

SUITS ENDORSE FUR TRIMMINGS

Handsome Effects Obtained

This is going to be a big fur season and you're sure to want a fur trimmed suit for your wardrobe. They are comparatively less expensive than they've been for many years, and as long as one has a reputable furrier or department store to deal with, a fur trimmed suit is a wise investment in style.

NEW CHARM TO THE LIVING ROOM

If we want to make our home look smartly modern, we'll have to start with each part of the house and have our remodeling experts cast their magic wand over it to transform it from Cinderella's cottage to the Princess's palace. Let's start with the living room, because that is most important of all, and the one room in the house that must make the best impression on guests and "company"—

Floor Interest

Now how about the floor? Is it grey looking and dingy, and does its dulness take away from the nice coloring of our rugs? That's an unforgivable faux pas in today's home—so we'll call our local floor specialist and get him to scrape our floor until it's a creamy tannish color and then we'll either let him varnish it a natural tone, or have it stained mahogany or walnut, but either of those isn't as modern as it might be, so maybe we'll decide to have a nice rich tone of brick red enamel used on our floor, or if our room is going to be very striking, we may choose black.

Tinted Walls

The walls need some attention, too. The faintest tint of green would do nicely and we can have a delicate strip of panel-moulding forming a box effect at regular intervals on our wall, its beveled surface made a little more effective by means of silver or gold paint. If we don't like green, a rich, creamy color is always correct, and then, too, it blends with everything as does a pale yellow which has become very popular of late.

New Wall Papers

Of course, if we're particularly fond of wall paper, there are a thousand and one patterns we can choose from, and we personally think that the most effective is in monotone, with its design heightened by means of a silky finish. The wall paper we like best for a living room is a buff, ribbed type, with a small geometric design printed in a slightly more gold tone of buff, which has a satin-finish on alternate boxes in the pattern. With this paper the ceiling moulding and the baseboard are done entirely in dull gold, and the effect is quite charming. Our ceiling carries out the buff tone in paint, as do the windows. The rest of our color must be gained through furnishings, curtains ,and draperies, which must be chosen carefully if we're aiming for artistic results and little expense.

Colorful Windows

If we intend to keep several good looking pieces of furniture which we have, and we have no intention of reupholstering them, our drapes will naturally have to tone in with them whether it contrasts or matches. But we're taking into consideration that everything will be new, and because our windows frame our room, we'll give our drapes and curtains color interest. One very beautiful scheme we recently saw in an exhibition of modern decoration was emphasized with drapes of velvet in a heavy, but soft quality. The background is a buff, similar to that in the paper above suggested, and a design of large and small cube-shaped boxes was suggested in hair-lines of black and orange. This is a striking color combination, but the black and orange were worked so delicately that they formed a very pleasing effect. The curtains under the straight drapes were of a sheer marquisette in the faintest tone of orange—an orange with a sunlit quality. With the curtains coming to the base of the window, and the drapes hanging almost to the floor, a luxurious effect was simply gained.

If our floor is maroon, however, orange would be out of the question for cantrast, and we would select instead something with a shade of soft green or perhaps a warm tone of blue.

Neutral Rugs

Instead of one big rug to cover our entire floor, we'll select two or three smaller rugs, which can be arranged in different ways to suit our changes of taste, and to be adaptable in case we decide to move our furniture around. Working on the theory of black floor, buff and gold walls, buff, orange and black drapes and orange curtains, we will select rugs using at least two of these tones, and incorporating another—preferably a fairly vivid tone of green. In fact, our new color may be the background and border, of our rugs, and we will see to it that it is also introduced in some of our upholstery and in the form of knicknacks used for decoration.

THREE YEAR APPRENTICESHIP NEEDED.

Underconsumption of Farming Products Perils Agriculture

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 10—(UP)—Agriculture in California is on the verge of a great economic upheavel.

Overproduction and underconsumption are the twin evils that have brought about this condition, according to Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan, himself one of the few genuine "dirt farmers" among the various state officials.

Prices for nearly every agricultural product in the state are low compared with the prices paid for goods they buy and payments they must make, Jordan said. As a result, farm incomes aren't high enough to maintain or increase standards of living and acquire independent ownership.

"Unsatisfactory returns from farm products have been reflected in reduced real estate values," said Jordan. "The 1931 census placed a value of 3½ billion dollars on the 135,000 farms in California.

"This lowered value was reflected to some extent in San Mateo county, where the total value of all farms was reported by the last census at $23,328,749. The average value per farm in the county was $27,739.

"The farmer's equity in mortgaged property has been reduced greatly, and tax delinquencies have gained. You'll find banks and money-lending agencies have acquired thousands of farms in California."

Prospects for immediate improvement in farm conditions are not good, Jordan added, and as a result a growing spirit of unrest and discontent may be found among farmers. The state, on the other hand, is doing all it can to bring relief.

"A state tax commission is considering the feasibility of equalizing the tax burden," he continued. "Statewide water commissions are working on the problem of water development, one of the most important questions before the state today. A special committee has been named to adjust the tangled affairs of irrigation districts on the ragged edge of bankruptcy. All marketing agencies of the state are expanding their work.

"Much, however, depends upon the individual farmer if the state is to bring order out of the present agricultural chaos. More careful selection of crops and enterprises fitting the physical conditions of farms, labor and price outlook are imperative. Care in marketing is needed. Budgets and accounts must be kept. These are things over which the farmer has immediate control, and should be carefully considered during the present crisis."

Week at the State Capital

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 9 —(UP)—A saving of $250,000 has been effected through the use of a new system of classifying state employes according to an announcement by Roland A. Vandegrift, state director of finance.

The change is concerned principally with the adjustment of salaries when changes are made, so that new positions open with a minimum rating. Vandegrift anticipates that $500,000 will be saved this year through the plan.

The Olympic games in Los Angeles should be well attended by state and city governmental dignitaries.

Miss Betty Gerke, social secretary of Governor Rolph, and "ambassador of good will" returned recently from an air tour of western and mid-western states.

Miss Gerke brought back the promises of 15 governors and a score of mayors to attend the games next year. The tour extended as far east as Detroit, Michigan, where Miss Gerke was the guest of Henry Ford.

An appeal for $50,000 additional maintenance for the state division of real estate is to be asked if a special session of the legislature is called.

Because real estate licenses have dropped to 14,000 after having reached a peak of 47,000 in 1927, the division finds itself seriously handicapped for lack of funds, it is claimed.

According to T. A. Kelly, chief deputy real estate commissioner, the appropriation is wanted to permit the division to continue in its work of investigating "shady" real estate projects. Ten deputies and 25 clerks have been dropped from the division payroll already this year for lack of funds.

Sale of $6,000,000 worth of 4 per cent state veteran welfare bonds was authorized this week by the state finance commission headed by Governor Rolph.

The sale of these bonds will leave $6,000,000 of the $20,000,000 block voted at the 1930 general election for the purchase of homes and farms for war veterans.

According to George Stout secretary of the veterans welfare board, the money is being spent at the rate of $1,250,000 a month, with applications for loans coming in at the rate of approximately 700 a month.

An increase in the shipping point inspection service sponsored in California by the state and federal governments is being planned by Dudley Moulton, state director of agriculture.

This voluntary service has proved to be a strong selling point in eastern markets, and it is believed a more strict grading of products will assure generally higher prices.

In returning from a conference with federal authorities in Washington, Moulton announced that all agreements with the government providing for such joint projects as seed testing, market news, crop reporting service and similar work would continue effective under his administration of the department.

CHILD AUTO TOLL HEAVY

HARRISBURG, P., September 10 (U.P.)—Automobiles took heavy toll of children in Pennsylvania during July, the State Bureau of Motor Vehicles reported. Thirty-five children were killed and 772 injured by automobiles in the state during the month. Ten of the fatally injured were less than four years old.

Gilroy—Plans underway to construct radio beacon near here to cost between $25,000 and $35,000.

'Depression Jazz'

In a beautiful redwood grove in Marin county, California, Joseph Maggiolo entertained a number of his countrymen at a picnic with his new style of jazz on an accordion. Wealthy residents of the district were attracted to the grove by his melodies and now Joe is launched on the road to success. The accordion, he explains, is an excellent hard times substitute for an entire orchestra when played properly.

MENLO PARK

The large row of gum trees on Uuiversity drive, opposite Oak Grove avenue, are to be cut down by Contractor Wood, who has the contract to improve that thoroughfare and adjoining street. The trees were planted there more than half a century ago by the late A. Barriolet, a French banker, who conceived the idea of raising silk woms on adjoining property. Mulberry trees were planted for the silkworm to thrive upon and the gums were grown to protect the mulberry timber. The project failed but Barriolet showed enterprise and courage. Only a few of the mulberry trees now remain. They are mute witnesses of an enterprise that failed.

W. J. Belcourt has been appointed by the city council a part time officer in the police department. He is to do relief duty for two days each week. Belcourt has resided in Menlo Park for some years. Some years ago he married Miss Carrie Buelna, whose parents lived in California during the mission days.

The traffic signals to be placed on the highway at Santa Cruz avenue are to be installed about October 2. They are needed and will be welcomed by the pedestrians.

Mrs. James Toomey, formerly the pretty Miss Mary Gale of Menlo Park, visited friends of her childhood home here this week. Mrs. Toomey was a widow for some time but last July she married her brother-in-law, James Toomey, a prominent member of the San Francisco fire department. Ten years ago Mrs. Toomey was acounted one of the prettiest young women of San Mateo county. She still retains her beauty.

In response to a letter sent to all religious bodies, fraternal organizations and Boy Scouts by Judge Hoss to provide ways and means of taking care of the unemployed during the coming winter, the city hall was packed to the doors. The object of the gathering was to ascertain if the citizens of Menlo Park wanted to undertake the matter of adopting relief plans. Judge Hoss called the meeting to order and explained its objects very fully. It was agreed that the city should take care of its unemployed. Committees were appointed to this end. They will report to another citizens meeting to be held shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Bidwell, E. E. Quayle and wife left yesterday for Requa to catch the elusive salmon. Dr. Yale and wife have been there for the past week and have written their friends that the run of salmon in that district is good and that many fine catches are being made. This news has lured the local Ike Waltons northward.

Harry Chandler, the grocer, has vacated his stores in the O'Keefe block and has moved his stock to San Bruno. He had resided in Menlo Park for the past six years. Mr. Chandler and his wife were prominent in church and civic affairs.

Denis Merz, the poet, and for a number of years the flagman at the Oak Grove avenue crossing, passed away at Arizona this week from tuberculosis, a malady from which he suffered for many years. Merz was widely known here and liked. During his leisure moments he wrote poetry, a doggrel, that had some literary merit. The remains were cremated in Cypress Lawn cemetery yesterday morning. Merz battled bravely with the dreaded disease, but succombed last Sunday after a residence of several years on the hot sands of Arizona. He is survived by a son, Calvin, living in San Francisco.

To the Shell Oil Company goes the honor of displaying the only Bear flag on Admission Day in Menlo Park. Other firms displayed the American flag, but none the California emblem.

The city council at a recent meeting adopted the following wage scale as presented by the Trades' Council. This scale will be paid on all public work: cement finisher, $8; crane operator, $9; bricklayer, $8; bricklayer's helper, $5; carpenter, form setter, $8; carpenter's helper, $5; common laborer, $4; cement laborer, $5; pipe layer, plumber or pipe fitter, $8; helper to these mechanics, $4; steam roller operator, $9; steam shovel operator, $9; tractor operator, $6.50; truck driver, $6; watchman, $5; and foremen $1 day more than the wage scale for the class of work they are supervising.

Sister Imelda of the Corpus Christi Monastery, took her solemn vows at a beautiful and impressive ceremony at the chapel of the monastery last Tuesday morning. She has been in the cloister for five years. The ows the sister took are her final ones.

James Flood left on Thursday for the east to complete his studies at Yale. The young man graduates next year. It is understood that after his graduation he will enter the Flood offices in San Francisco to assist in managing the vast holdings of that large estate.

Last week a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Casey, the new arrival making a group of three, two girls and a boy. As the proud father is a noted game hunter, the little miss, no doubt, will be a modern Diana when she grows up.

The city council did not hold its regular meeting Tuesday evening, as a quorom was not present. Only Mayor Weeden and Councilman Crane showed up, Blake, Dale and Anderson were out of town. The meeting was adjourned by the mayor to September 15.

St. Joseph's Parochial school opened for the fall term yesterday. There was an increased attendance. The grammar school that resumed studies recently had a larger attendance than ever before. Both institutions are crowded, which shows the increasing population of Menlo Park. Before long more facilities will have to be provided to house the youngsters.

Ralph Johnson, brother of F. W. Johnson, road superintendent of this township, was the engineer of the Daylight Limited, Southern Pacific flyer, that ran into a truck at Coyote, south of San Jose, killing the driver and a companion. The accident was on the Martindale road, a private thoroughfare. For a long time the residents of that district hae been appealing for a wig wag at that crossing, their request falling on deaf ears. Johnson is one of the oldest men, in point of service, in the employ of the Southern Pacific. This is his first accident. He was born and raised in Menlo Park. After leaving the grammar school here, he started as a fireman for the company.

Miss Carmel O'Keefe, who has enrolled in the San Francisco College for Women, left yesterday to begin a four-year course. She is to major in music and Romanic languages. The institution is conducted by the Mothers of the Sacred Heart, who maintain a high school here, from which Miss O'Keefe graduated with honors last June.

The people living on Oak Grove avenue, between the highway and Laurel avenue, will shortly enjoy bright lights from electroliers, soon to be put in that portion of the city.

The thirty-ninth anniversary of Menlo Parlor N. S. G. W. last Thursday night at Mangini's where a banquet was given in observance of the event and was one of the most enjoyable occasions in the history of the organization. Only two of the original members were present, D. E. O'Keefe, the first president, and James Andrews, first past president. As the feasting proceeded, Mayor Weeden, president of the parlor, called upon Grand Trustee S. M. Shortridge to act as toastmaster. The speech making that followed was interesting and abler than the usual talks given on such occasions. Lucas Greer, one of the oldest Native Sons in this community, gave a reminiscent discourse upon the early days of the county. His thrilling bear stories of Woodside and Portola occasioned much mirth. Former Grand President Thomas Monohan of San Jose paid a glowing tribute to the Shortridge family, the members of which he knew in boyhood at the Garden City. Grand Carroto gave an able account of his visit to the parlors of the mining districts of the northern part of the state. The story of Maximo Martinez, who at one time owned all the land in the neighborhood of the banquet hall, was told by D. E. O'Keefe. Martinez was given the grant in 1833 by the Mexican governor. Martinez was a regidor at San Jose from 1833 to 1834.

F. W. Johnson made a strong and eloquent appeal to the parlor to secure more new recruits and increase the membership of the organization. He was followed by J. E. Bracesco, who talked along the same lines urging all to work for more members. Bracesco mixed good natured humor with his appeal. M. F. X. Kavanaugh, by his witty sallies, brought forth applause and laughter. President Weeden in a well timed address, pledged his best efforts to building up the parlor during his administration. L. E. Harris spoke for the press, promising his columns to aid the cause of increasing membership. Mr. Albright's funny stories caused much merriment. Roland Midgley gave a brief account of his honeymoon trip in Oregon and at Yellowstone Park.

Postmaster Larrecou made humorout allusions to his duties as financial secretary and was twitted by Donald Derry for his sterness in demanding dues. The occasion will long be remembered by tehose present. The members contemplate making the fortieth anniversary a notable event next year.

Start Campaign Against Cats in Game Preserves

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 7—(UP)—They laughed when the 1929 legislature passed a law declaring a house cat to be a "predatory animal" when found in a game preserve.

But according to the California Fish and Game Commission, more than 300 semi-wild house cats have been killed in southern Butte county by an expert hunter for the Feather River Rod and Gun Club.

Stomachs of the cats were opened, and in 99 were found duck and quail meat.

The commission reports that a 12-pound semi-wild house cat was shot in an eastern state, that resembled a tiger. Farmers who permit cats to roam on their places are keeping away birds, which aid materially in destroying insect pests, the commission said.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.

Sequoia Wins in First Game of Football Season by 6-0 Score

Opening their season in fine spirit, the Sequoia high school rooters cheered the Cherokee football eleven to a 6 to 0 victory over Balboa high last Wednesday on the local turf.

The big feature of the tussle occurred during the third quarter, when Charles Preston and Roland Craven, Indian halves, started a series of runs from their own 40-yard line, and finally pushed the ball over the goal for the only tally of the tilt. The try for extra point went wide.

Yesterday's contest initiated the use of a new football shift into Sequoia football tactics. During the first half, play was ragged. The Indians, however, began to "click" during the second half, and with improved interference were able to tally the only score of the game.

The San Francisco team used a shift which proved effective throughout the tilt and almost disasterous to Sequoia in the fourth period of play. Balboa worked the ball down to the eight-yard line, where, after four tries for a score, they lost the ball on downs, and Sequoia punted out of danger.

With a veteran line from last year squad, the Sequoia gridders presented a formidable defense, time and again throwing Balboa runners for losses. Twice Balboa passes were smothered, and one of their punts was partially blocked.

Many yards were gained by the Balboa eleven when they recovered five out of Sequoia's seven fumbles. The Cherokees fumbled six times in the first half and once in the second, while the visitors fumbled only four times.

Captain Leo Leroy, Sequoia end, played the finest game of any individual who participated in the tilt. Intercepting a pass in the first quarter, he ran 60 yards before he was finally tackled by a Balboa player on the visitors' 20-yard line. Leroy also mixed up in other Balboa plays, causing several losses for the San Francisco gridders.

BONNIE LADDIE

Despite his years, David C. Mather, Anaconda, Mont., still pipes a lightsome tune and shakes stiffening legs in the Highland fling. In 1898 he held the world's championship with the bagpipes and won medals the same year as a dancer. He was champion in the annual Highland fling competitions from 1895 to 1902. He has more than 400 medals.

New Manual Out for Friendly Indians

Just off the press is a new "Friendly Indian Manual", the product of Roy H. Hohberger, the local secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, who is the originator of the "Friendly Indian" idea. The illustrations are the work of Mrs. Hohberger.

As a result of the rapid growth of this movement in spite of the fact that at its inception many workers with boys were of the opinion that boys' work should not reach below the twelve year age, tribes of boys 8 to 12 years of age under this program are now found throughout the U. S. and in a number of foreign countries. Nine years ago when it was started at the request of a group of younger boys and the program details were worked out by them as a project, it never entered the mind of one of them that it would grow to have a national and an international appeal. Latest figures which are not complete show that there are between three and four thousand tribes with sixty-five thousand enrolled.

The American Indian appeal is not only dear to the boys of this country but in others as well. Undoubtedly this interest was first aroused when Columbus brought the first Red Men to Europe. Through the legends and other literature, Wild West Shows, and the movies this interest has grown by leaps and bounds.

The motive behind the program is character-building. The best in Indian life is brought to the fore. Special emphasis is placed on friendliness not only among the boy and his associates at home but with boys of other lands.

In preparing for the manual much study was given to the best in educational methods and psychology to meet the needs of this age of boy. Thousands of these manuals will be put into the hands of boys of this age in the next few months.

SPEAKING of SPORT

BY FRANK GETTY

N. B. A. Ranking List Shows Many Changes

The National Boxing Association's heavyweight rankings for September reveal several important changes from the last previous list.

Jack Sharkey of Boston, despite his draw with Mickey Walker, is accorded the position of leading contender, replacing W. L. Stribling, Jr., who was dropped to sixth place as a result of his technical knockout at the hands of Max Schmeling at Cleveland, July 3.

Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia is moved up from fifth place to second place. Ernie Schaaf, Boston, is ranked No. 3 whereas he was No. 7 a few months ago.

Mickey Walker on the strength of his draw with Sharkey is given fourth place. He was not ranked at all in the previous list.

There are two newcomers on the list—Charlie Retzlaff hard-hitting Duluth, Minn., farmer, and Steve Hamas, former Penn State athlete. Retzlaff is given eighth place and Hamas tenth.

Three heavyweights have been dropped from the first ten. They are George Godfry, giant negro; Max Baer, young Californian, and Larry Johnson, Chicago negro.

A comparison of the last two rankings follows:

September Champion— Max Schmeling	May Champion Max Schmeling
1—Jack Sharkey	1—W. L. Stribling, Jr.
2—Tommy Loughran	2—Jack Sharkey
3—Ernie Schaaf	3—George Godfrey
4—Mickey Walker	4—Primo Carnera
5—Primo Carnera	5—Tommy Loughran
6—W. L. Stribling, Jr.	6—Tuffy Griffiths
7—Tuffy Griffiths	7—Ernie Schaaf
8—Chas. Retzlaff	8—Max Baer
9—Paulino Uzcudun	9—Larry Johnson
10—Steve Hamas	10—Pauline Uzcudun

The champions recognized in the other divisions by the N. B. A. are: Light heavyweight open; middleweight, open; walterweight, Jack Thompson; junior welterweight, Tony Canzoneri; lightweight, Tony Canzoneri; junior lightweight, Kid Chocolate, featherweight, Christopher Battalino; bantamweight, Al Brown; flyweight, Frankie Genaro.

SOUTH AFRICA READY TO TRY FOR BIG TITLE

LONDON, Sept. 9 (UP)—Figuring on troubling the best heavyweights in the world one year from now, Don McCorkindale, heavyweight champion of South Africa, has arrived here eager for a tilt with any European heavyweight—none barred.

When and if he puts over the "horizontal" trick on the Europeans, he intends to try his skill against the best in the United States.

McCorkindale looks a model heavyweight. Standing six feet, one and one-half inches in stockinged feet, he weighs over 190 pounds, and is beautifully proportioned. He is only 24 and already possesses an eviable ring record.

DEAF MUTE UMPIRE JUST TURNS HIS EYES

NEW ORELANS, Sept. 9 (UP)—When players' protest, or baseball fans criticism get too violent for Umpire Victor Sacco, he turns his eyes and that ends the matter.

Sacco is a deaf mute and is official referee for the regular Monday night ball games between two "silent" clubs at the Wiltz gymnasium here. All players are likewise deaf mutes as is the cheering section, composed chiefly of wives and families of the players.

The games are played in silence, broken only occasionally by handclapping when a pitcher strikes out three in a row, or somebody knocks a "homer." Even the rustling of the players' clothes makes a stir, audible to a visitor. Wild gesticulations mark the games as the umpire's fingers denote "strikes," "balls," "strike out" and "walks."

GRID STARS TO WEAR KNIT PANTS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 9 (UP)—Members of the Marquette University football squad will wear colored knit pants on the gridiron this fall. A few players tried the new uniforms out last year and were so well satisfied that the university decided to issue them to all members of the team.

SUPERSTITION WORKED

HAZELTON, Pa., Sept. 9 (UP)—A baseball superstition was justified here recently in a New York-Pennsylvania League game between Hazleton and Harrisburg when Bill Dietrich, Harrisburg hurler, paused between innings to have his picture taken. Prior to the photographing, Diethich had held the Mountaineers to a single hit. When he returned to the box, after the snapshot request, he was clouted from pillar to post before Manager Eddie Onslow sent in a relief pitcher.

HOLLYWOOD'S FILM SHOP

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 19 (UP)—One of the men who helps think up titles for motion pictures explained today how each finished film is dangled before the public as a tempting morsel to lure millions of people into the theatres of the nation.

"This title business must be given the utmost attention," said William Wright, of the Paramount studio. "Changes are made for many reasons. Take 'The Prince Chap' for instance. We have changed it to 'The Beloved Bachelor.'

"The reason is simply that there are enough of the American people who don't want to see pictures about kings, queens and dukes. So we don't make royalty an element of appeal, and it would be if mentioned in the title.

"The public wants characters close to home. The stenographer wants to sit in a theatre and pretend she is Constance Bennett. The elderly family man pictures himself in roles portrayed by George Arliss. The man who sees George Bancroft says 'he's a he-man and he's doing just what I would in that situation.'"

Wright said that the producers are careful not to title a picture in a fashion that will not appeal to women. That is why a fight picture starring Richard Arlen was called "The Girl I Love." None of the advertising illustrations showed a boxer.

For the same reason a picture featuring Jackie Oakie, which was a fight-polo story, was called "The Social Lion." Incidentally, the original title, "Marco, Himself," meant nothing.

As a further illustration he pointed out that a name such as "The Gunfighting Cowboy" would be a poor one for a Tom Mix picture. His fans know he is a cowboy and would go to see him anyhow. Others who don't like westerns could be attracted by playing up the romantic side with a title such as "The Man I Love," already mentioned.

Wright said that "Burlesque" became "The Dance of Life" because in billboard advertising people might not realize that was just the subject treated in the story and not a burlesque show.

Wright gathers suggestions for titles from studio employes, selects the good ones and presents them at a meeting of executives.

Councilman McCarthy said the festival was a very deserving affair and should have the support not only of the council but of the people of Redwood City. The board felt, however, that owning to the fact that no provision had been made in the budget, it would be impossible to offer any financial assistance this year.

At the request of County Clerk E. B. Hinman and former member of the council, the board, on motion of Councilmen Larbert and Hildbrant, voted to waive the usual license fee for the performance of "Cimarron", to be shown at the Sequoia Theatre this week under the auspices of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

On motion of Councilmen McCarthy and Hildebrant, the board adopted a resolution confirming the reassessment of street work to to take care of the resubdivision of several lots in Central Park.

City Engineer C. L. Dimmitt was authorized by the board, on motion of Councilmen McCarthy and Hildebrant, to purchase the necessary 40-inch pipe and three hydrants to use in extending the city fire mains the cost of the pipes and the hydrants, together with the installation work, was estimated by Dimmitt at $7,000.

Councilman Dusel addressed the board with reference to a better plan for controlling the traffic at the Five Points since the installation of the new automatic signal. He thought lines drawn from Main street and the Woodside road for machines to follow on to the Main highway would improve the situation. Following considerable discussion, it was decided to leave the matter in the hands of Chief of Police C. L. Collins for him to make a further study of the problem.

The N. S. G. W. Troop No. 143 opened the fall season with a splendid meeting Saturday evening. Plans announced by Scoutmaster Steffens and included a serious campaign on Scout tests, several hikes and an outdoor meeting in the near future.

Clifton Woodhams of the local Sea Scouts launched his new sailboat "Imp," on Labor Day. She is an extremely well-made little boat when finally rigged. This is the fifth of this type built by the Sea Scouts, called the Chunky class. With five other sailboats the fleet now numbers ten.

Jack Weed and John Rhoda were appointed coxswains of the crews and immediately a challenge was issued for an eight weeks battle to end in a dinner provided by the losing crew. The ship's whaleboat is now undergoing an overhauling at yacht harbor in preparation for the P. I. C. Y. A. day, September 19, when the yacht clubs of San Francisco bay anchor at Redwood harbor over the week end.

Friday evening, September 18, the Boy Scout troops of San Mateo county will meet in the auditorium of Burlingame high school for their annual after camp rally. It is an interesting and thrilling rally of enthusiastic boyhood and all parents and friends are especially invited to attend. There is no admission charge.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 10—(UP)—Democrats of California, Nevada and Arizona will have their own official newspaper after September 7, according to plans of E. B. Zapfee, Sacramento newspaper man.

The "Western Democrat," a weekly paper devoted to the political interests of that party, will be inaugurated on that date.
